d. Progress Review. The progress or mid-year review is the assessment by the immediate supervisor of the employee's performance to date. For exempt employees, this review may be used to modify the original performance plan. The primary purpose of the mid-year review is for discussion between the supervisor and the employee on how well the employee is meeting objectives and the supervisor's expectations. It also allows for input from the employee for recommended changes to the performance plan. This review shall be completed approximately halfway through the performance appraisal period.

e. Local Objective. Local objectives reflect specific activities or tasks an exempt or nonexempt employee is expected to accomplish during the appraisal year. Local objectives will be related to requirements and goals of the organization. They are of such importance that not meeting an objective or completing a task could result in an unacceptable performance rating.

f. Performance Appraisal Period. The performance appraisal period is the period of time during which an employee's performance will be reviewed and a final rating completed.

g. Performance Award. A performance award is a cash award based on the employee's annual performance rating. Such an award is only authorized once a year; normally, shortly after the performance plan's final appraisal.

h. Performance Plan. The performance plan consists of standard elements and local objectives expected to be accomplished by employees during the appraisal period.

4. Performance/Work Plan Development. Regular personnel will be evaluated at least annually. Performance work plans, to include goals and objectives, must be developed annually at the beginning of the rating period or whenever an employee enters a new position. Temporary promotions or details to positions for 120 days or more will require a new performance work plan.

5. Performance Appraisal Process

a. Step 1 - Assemble the Relevant Documents. Obtain and review:

- (1) Employee's past appraisal.
- (2) Employee's position description.
- (3) Organizational mission, goals and objectives.

b. Step 2 - Identify Objectives. Develop the performance or work plan by identifying objectives.

- (1) Review organizational, departmental or section goals and objectives.
- (2) List work assignments for which the employee will have responsibility during the appraisal period.
- (3) Verify that employee work assignments relate to goals and requirements.
- (4) Write objectives:

(a) List specific results the employee is expected to accomplish during the appraisal period.

(b) Time requirements may be imposed when accomplishing a goal or objective within the appraisal period.

(c) Objectives will be measurable and identifiable by qualitative or quantitative factors.

(d) Objective must be challenging, yet obtainable.

c. Step 3 - Certify Approval of the Final Performance Plan

(1) The supervisor, employee and reviewer must sign and date the performance plan. This will indicate that the supervisor and reviewer approve the performance plan and that the employee is aware of the objectives expected to be accomplished during the rating period. The reviewer makes the final decision on content and form of the objectives.

(2) The employee's signature does not constitute agreement with the plan; it merely signifies that the employee has received it.

(3) When employees are detailed to another position for a period of 120 days or more, a performance plan will be developed no later than 30 days after the detail to the new assignment. Ratings on objectives will be prepared for the detail and considered in the next final performance rating.

(4) Provide a copy of the approved and signed performance plan to the employee.

(5) Employees must be provided a copy of an approved written performance plan within 30 days after the beginning of each appraisal period, entry into a new position, and each detail or temporary promotion expected to last 120 days or more.

d. Step 4 - Assess Performance

(1) Annually, the supervisor shall meet with the employee to:

(a) Discuss the objectives and elements of the performance plan; review the employee's performance objective by objective, and element by element against the performance plan; and verbally summarize the overall evaluation of the employee's performance.

(b) Identify any training and individual development needs of the employee.

(c) Establish a performance plan for the new reporting year.

(2) After completing of the individual objective and element ratings, the supervisor then assigns:

(a) To the exempt employee one of the following overall ratings of total performance that is generally consistent with the following decision table:

Highly competent: All objectives of the plan and all elements rated "EXCEEDED."

ENCLOSURE (1)

27 Oct 00

Competent: All objectives of the plan are rated at least "Met."

Unacceptable: One objective or element rated "NOT MET."

(b) To the nonexempt and crafts and trade employees, one of the following overall ratings of total performance:

Outstanding: All individual rating factors must be rated as "OUTSTANDING."

Excellent: Three of the five rating factors must be rated "EXCELENT" with the two remaining factors above "UNSATISFACTORY."

Unsatisfactory: When one or more rating factors are marked as "UNSATISFACTORY."

(3) The overall rating must take into account any earlier appraisals prepared for details or temporary assignments lasting 120 days or longer or Appraisals completed as a result in a change of supervision.

(4) The supervisor or reviewer may make separate recommendations for performance awards or personnel actions.

(5) The final rating and any recommendations will not be communicated to the employee before the approval by the reviewer is complete.

(6) The supervisor, employee and reviewer must sign and date the completed final appraisal. The original final appraisal will be filed in the official personnel file and a copy will be provided to the employee.

(7) The employee must be under an approved performance plan for at least 120 days to be rated. If the employee has been under the plan for less than 120 days, the supervisor will complete the plan by noting "NOT OBSERVED."
